

FOLKLORE PROJECT

My project is about my great grandparents during the 1910 to 1920 time period. During that time, the English came to Malaysia and reigned over. At the particular period of time, it was very much demeaning. While the people who lived further out such as Putrajaya, would get to eat more luxurious food while the area that my great grandparents were located in, which was Terengganu the food was measly. Fortunately, my great grandparent were not affected. They were both tailors, making and selling clothing to people. My great grandfather's father told him that they never personally experienced or were ever affected by the English. Around the time, the only history they would learn at school was history from Malaysia and England. People from Malaysia, even now, do not know that Ireland even exists! The only ways that they would really know is that people would come to work, families live in Ireland and more.
