

Fiona's Story

Fiona's granny was in Trinity College studying medicine. In 1916 Fiona said she had to be locked up because she wanted to join the fighting. Her name was Iris Walton Long and she moved to Cape Clear. Before she moved to Cape Clear she lived in Africa, where she drove trucks in the desert during the Second World War. For fear of being put under house arrest she moved back to Ireland. In 1965 she moved here to Cape Clear.
