

My Hindi Family Story

Written by Alarnis Mohan-Sexton

Introduction

The people I will be talking about in my stories are my great grandmother, Catherine Carty and my great granduncle, James Carty. The people who told these stories to me were my grandaunt, Kathleen and my grandmother, Liz.

Kilronan Ambush

When my great grandmother, Catherine Carty was a little girl she went picking blackberries in Kilronan. She met two British soldiers who told her to go home to her mother. Later that day there was an ambush in Kilronan at that very place.

On the run

When my great grandmother was young the Black and Tans raided their house regularly to see if James Carty was hiding or if he had hid any of his guns in the house. But there was no sight of him or his guns. When the war was over at the age of about twenty-one, he moved to America and started a new life.
