

MY GREAT -

Grandparents

My Great Great Grandparents Cathleen and John Kingston owned a farm near Kippagh in Dunmanway during the war of independence they helped members of the flying Columns. They fed and hid them from the British. During that time they were raided by the Black and Tans but luckily they didn't ever find the members of the Flying Columns. After independence, their contribution was recognised by the free state

By Molly Kingston

